

"I always speak the truth. Not the whole truth, because there's no way, to say it all. Saying it all is literally impossible: words fail. Yet it's through this very impossibility that the truth holds onto the real."

jacques lacan: TELEVISION

a film screening and discussion with an introduction by marsh leicester, jr.

In 1973, an interview/discourse by the psychoanalyst Jacques Lacan was aired on French television. Typical of Lacan's imperious, playful, impassioned, and maddeningly evasive seminar style, Television offers a glimpse into the thought of this controversial and influential intellectual near the end of his life. We are screening the part of the original broadcast that has been released on video, and master copies of the full broadcast text are available for individual photocopying in the Cowell College Faculty Services, the Literature Department Graduate Annex, and the Cultural Studies office.
