

Black/Brown

Roundtable:

Collaborations Across Differences

All too often the question of relations among African Americans and Latino/as emerges in immediate response to urgent crisis situations only to disappear, as a crisis becomes "last week's news." In contrast to that approach, this one day gathering brings together activists within and outside the academy who are directly involved in on-going Latino/a and African American collaborations. Our goal is to take a grounded real world and long-range view of how such cooperation succeeds, the challenges faced, and strategies for a positive future for these two populations.
